Legend ▶

In the default view you can see the latest course catalog. Above the structure tree, you will find other information that we have removed from the screenshot for these instructions. The selected semester (the current semester in the standard view) and the structure tree are important.

If you would like to change semester, you can use the dropdown menu above the catalog. You can expand and collapse the various levels using the arrow symbols.

Three action icons are displayed on the right. You can use the first icon on the left (1) to create a permalink. You can then use this to link to information in the course catalog from external applications. Using icon in the center (2), you can expand the tree structure under an element to see all sub-levels, and collapse it again using the last icon that is on the right (3).

To view detailed information on a course or an examination, click on the title (4) of the element.

By default, the basic data of a course is displayed in the “Events” tab when you open a course. Depending on the information that is saved, it shows the title, brief description, the organizational unit offering the course, type of course, frequency of the course, ECTS credits, semester hours and comments. The “contents” tab is not displayed for examinations.

In the lower part of the standard view, you can find details of the schedule for the course in a table, split into parallel courses if applicable. Here you can find information on the frequency, day of the week, time, start and finish date, lecturer and room where the course will be held.

You can export data for iCalendar (ics) for each parallel group (1). If you see the warning icon (3), changes have been made to a least one of the individual dates. You can check by clicking on the warning icon or on “Show individual dates” (2). Here you can then see, for example, whether an individual date has been canceled or whether an alternative date or room has been arranged.
