The course catalogue in campo
Table of contents

Show course catalogue .................................................................................................................................................. 3
Detailed view .................................................................................................................................................................. 4
  Parallel courses/ Schedules ....................................................................................................................................... 4
Course catalogue ............................................................................................................................................................. 5
Modules/degree programmes .......................................................................................................................................... 5
Show courses held on date ............................................................................................................................................... 6
Search for a course ............................................................................................................................................................ 6
Show course catalogue

You can view the courses offered by FAU in the course catalogue. This function can be accessed whether or not you are signed in. Open the main menu and follow the menu items ‘Courses offered’ and ‘Show course catalogue’.

Course catalog for Summer semester 2022

In the default view you can see the latest course catalogue. If you would like to change semester, you can use the dropdown menu above the catalogue.

You can expand and collapse the various levels using the ‘+’ and ‘-’ signs.

Three action icons are displayed on the right. You can use the first icon on the left (1) to create a permalink. You can then use this to link to information in the course catalogue from external applications. Using icon in the centre (2), you can expand the tree structure under an element to see all sub-levels, and collapse it again using the last icon that is on the right (3).

To view detailed information on a course or an examination, click on the title (4) of the element.
The overview is always displayed when you open a course. Depending on the information that is saved, it shows the title, brief description, the organisational unit offering the course, type of course, frequency of the course, ECTS credits, semester hours and comments. The view is different when you open an examination.

Parallel groups / dates

Under ‘Parallel groups / dates’ you can find details of the schedule for the course in a table, split into parallel courses if applicable. Here you can find information on the frequency, day of the week, time, start and finish date, lecturer and room where the course will be held.

You can export data for iCalender (ics) for each parallel group (1). If you see the warning icon (3), changes have been made to at least one of the individual dates. You can check by clicking on the warning icon or on ‘Individual dates’ (2). Here you can then see, for example, whether an individual date has been cancelled or whether an alternative date or room has been arranged.
Course catalogue

The tab ‘Course catalogue’ shows where the course is included in the course catalogue.

Modules/degree programmes

Here you can find a list of all modules and degree programmes to which the course is assigned.
Show courses by date

Using this function allows you to view courses held on any specific day, now or in the future. Go to the main menu and select ‘Courses offered’ and ‘Show courses by date’.

To view all courses offered on any specific date, select the date and click ‘Search’. You can view detailed information on the course by clicking on the magnifying glass icon or the name of the course.

Search for a course

If you would like to search for a specific course without clicking through the tree structure in the course catalogue, you can go to the main menu and follow ‘Courses offered’ and ‘Search for a course’. A simple search screen opens in which you can enter parts of the title or the lecturer.

If you require more complex search options, you can select ‘Advanced search’.

Click on ‘Help for search ’ if you require further explanations of the search filters.